

CONTENTS

INTRODUCTION. THE ROLE OF THE ARMY IN GERMAN HISTORY	xiii
I. THE ARMY AND THE STATE, 1640-1807	i
i. The role of the army in the creation of the Prussian state from the Great Elector to Frederick II	i
ii. The army as an inhibiting factor in political and social progress	14
iii. The decline of the army and the destruction of the Frederician state, 1786-1807	22
II. REFORM AND REACTION, 1807-40	37
i. Stein, Scharnhorst, and the reforms	38
ii. The victory over Napoleon	53
iii. The Boyen period and the constitutional crisis of 1819	65
iv. The reaction and its consequences	76
III. FREDERICK WILLIAM IV, THE ARMY, AND THE CONSTITUTION, 1840-58	82
i. The first years of Frederick William IV	84
ii. 18-19 March 1848	92
iii. From the March rising to the return of the troops in November 1848	106
iv. The constitutional settlement and the position of the military establishment	120
IV. THE ARMY REFORM AND THE CONSTITU- TIONAL CONFLICT, 1859-66	136
i. The Prince Regent, Roon, and the army bill of 1860	138
ii. The fight against the Chamber: Edwin von Manteuffel and the military party, 1860-2	148
iii. The fight against the Chamber: the policy of Bismarck, 1862-6	160
iv. The collapse of Prussian liberalism and the indemnity law of September 1866	174

V. WAR AND DIPLOMACY IN THE PERIOD OF UNIFICATION	180
I. The Danish war of 1864	181
II. The Austrian war of 1866 and the roots of Bismarck's dispute with the General Staff	193
III. Bismarck and Moltke during the Franco-Prussian war	204
IV. Conclusion	215
VI. THE STATE WITHIN THE STATE, 1871-1914	217
I. The army's fight against parliamentary control: the military budget and the peace-time strength of the army; the decline of the Ministry of War, and the rise of the Military Cabinet and the General Staff	219
II. The social and educational policies of the army: the waning of aristocratic preponderance; the feudalization of the middle class; the role of the reserve officer	232
III. The army and parliament in the Wilhelmine period: the influence of the maison militaire ; disputes of the Caprivi-Hohenlohe period	238
IV. The army and society in the last years of peace	251
VII. THE ARMY AND FOREIGN POLICY, 1871-1914	255
I. Overt army interference in the sphere of policy: the development of the attachés	257
II. The Bulgarian crisis of 1887 and the subsequent failure of the 'Waldersee system'	266
III. Operational planning from Moltke to Schlieffen and its influence on policy	273
IV. Political effects of the Schlieffen plan under the younger Moltke, 1906-14	286
VIII. MILITARISM AND STATECRAFT, 1914-18	299
I. The Supreme Command from the younger Moltke to Hindenburg and Ludendorff	300
II. The annexationist groups in Germany	307
III. The problem of negotiated peace and the fall of Bethmann-Hollweg	313
IV. From Bethmann-Hollweg's fall to Brest Litovsk	326
V. The collapse, 1918	337

IX. THE ARMY AND THE REVOLUTION, 1918-20	342
I. November-December 1918	343
II. The restoration of order and the establishment of the Provisional Reichswehr	354
III. The reception of the peace terms	364
IV. From the reception of the terms to the Kapp Putsch	373
X. THE 'NON-POLITICAL' ARMY: SEECKT AND GESSLER, 1920-8	382
I. Hans von Seeckt	382
II. The 100,000-man Reichswehr: basic principles	389
III. Evasion of the treaty terms: the General Staff, the secret reserves, and the illicit armaments programme	397
IV. Evasion of the treaty terms: the tie with the Red army	408
V. The army and domestic politics, 1923-8	415
XI. THE ARMY IN POLITICS: GROENER AND SCHLEICHER, 1928-33	427
I. Wilhelm Groener, the Bruening government, and the rise of National Socialism	428
II. The problem of the S.A.	439
III. The dissolution of the S.A. and the fall of Groener and Bruening	446
IV. The politics of Kurt von Schleicher, 1932-3	453
V. The generals in January 1933	466
XII. HITLER AND THE ARMY, 1933-45	468
I. From the Machtübernahme to the army oath of 2 August 1934	470
II. The expansion of the army and the reorganization of February 1938	481
III. The last phase, 1938-45, and the responsibility of the generals	496
ALPHABETICAL LIST OF BOOKS AND ARTICLES CITED	505
INDEX	525