

All Rights Reserved
Library of Congress Cataloging-in-Publication Data
Freeman, Lawrence.
The Gulf conflict, 1990-1991: diplomacy and war in the new world order / Lawrence Freeman and Efraim Karsh.
New York: St. Martin's Press, 1992.
1. Persian Gulf War, 1991. I. Karsh, Efraim.
II. Freeman, Lawrence. III. Title.
DS135.5 .F74 1992
957.043—dc20
92-38995

Contents

List of Illustrations	ix
List of Tables	x
Acknowledgements	xi
Dramatis Personae	xii
Maps	xix
Introduction: The New World Order	xxix
Part One: Origins of the Crisis	i
Chapter 1: New World, New Middle East?	3
Chapter 2: Saddam's Crisis	19
Chapter 3: Iraq Confronts Kuwait	42
Part Two: Lines in the Sand	65
Chapter 4: Response to Invasion	67
Chapter 5: Desert Shield	85
Chapter 6: Middle East Alignments	95
Chapter 7: Sharing the Burden	110
Part Three: Sanctions, Hostages and Diplomacy	129
Chapter 8: Saddam's Unwilling Guests	131
Chapter 9: From Embargo to Blockade	143
Chapter 10: Poor Communications	154
Chapter 11: Enter Linkage	166
Chapter 12: The Oil Weapon	180
Chapter 13: The Food Weapon	189
Part Four: All Necessary Means	199
Chapter 14: The Offensive Option	201
Chapter 15: The Great Debate	211
Chapter 16: Two Miles Forward, One Mile Back	228
Chapter 17: Making a Date	238

○ Chapter 18: Showdown in Geneva	253
○ Chapter 19: Deadline Diplomacy	261
○ Chapter 20: Saddam Prepares for War	275
○ Chapter 21: America Prepares for War	283

Part Five: War

Chapter 22: War by Appointment	299
Chapter 23: The Strategic Air Campaign	312
Chapter 24: Saddam's 'Israeli Card' Fails	331
Chapter 25: The Coalition Holds	342
Chapter 26: Preparing the Battlefield	362
○ Chapter 27: Land War or Cease-Fire?	374
○ Chapter 28: Land War	386
○ Chapter 29: The Closing Whistle	400
Chapter 30: Saddam Survives	410

Conclusions

428

Notes

443

Bibliography

486

Index

496